PARENT-TO-PARENT

Parent-to-Parent helps adolescents, young adults, parents and the community at large through education, support, advocacy and assistance in finding detox, treatment and aftercare for those struggling with substance abuse.

Parent-to-Parent offers support groups for parents on the first Tuesday of every month from 7 to 9 p.m. Individual, confidential support is also available. The staff works with parents and those seeking appropriate treatment services. This is no small task in New Jersey.

Parent-to-Parent has become a leader in New Jersey for their advocacy work. They were instrumental in influencing Governor Whitman to commit to establishing residential substance abuse services for young people in New Jersey. The initial component of services was the South Jersey Initiative, which was formed to provide services until the residential program was established. Over 5,000 young people have received services through the SJI.

Parent-to-Parent's persistence, commitment and their powerful personal message has influenced Governors and Legislators and raised awareness of the problems of substance abuse in adolescents and young adults.

Parent-to-Parent's efforts have changed the attitude of important decision-makers across New Jersey and have done much to make more services available in South Jersey.

One of their biggest triumphs is the opening of DayTop South, a sister treatment facility to DayTop in Mendham, New Jersey, which opened to the public in April, 2005.

In February, 2006, Parent-to-Parent launched "Just a Nickel Campaign" aimed at passage of legislation to increase addiction treatment opportunities by increasing the tax on alcohol by just a nickel a gallon.

Parent-to-Parent advocates for those who are incarcerated. We communicate with the Judicial and Prison Systems in an effort to get those that are in prison placed in a drug/alcohol facility to obtain appropriate treatment.

PARENT-TO-PARENT SERVICES

- Confidential consultations
- Resource information
- Parent support and treatment planning
- Advocacy to access treatment
- Case management
- Community education and workshops
- Crisis intervention
- Support groups for parents and loved ones
